Facts

- One of the biggest competitors for Wranx is Loop that raised $2 million in seed funding.
- Wranx has a strong set of partners that include big players like Google and Amazon.

Why Innovative?

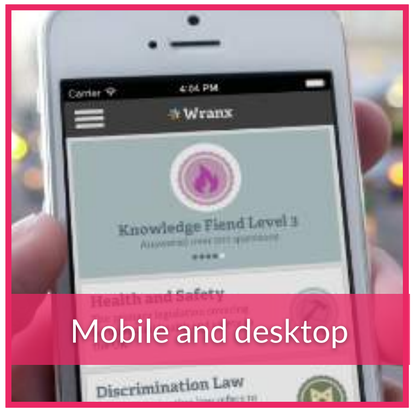

1. Wranx in 3 key offerings

Wranx uses a learning technique (Spaced Repetition Learning), that was used by B2C services such as Duolingo. This accelerated form of learning helps companies to use this already successful technique in a B2B environment.

The application uses gamification elements to keep employees engaged. Employees can review rankings and achievements, that work as simple incentives and provide valuable back-end data regarding competency, knowledge acquisition and expertise.

Employees can use this service wherever and whenever they want. Continuous learning does not require the classroom anymore.

2. On which trends does this company focus?

- Gamification
- e-Learning platform
- Employees shape their own carreer (intrapreneurship)

3. Does it bring people out of their comfort zone?

- HR will have less control over when and what employees will learn.
- It does not replace existing learning and development initiatives, but HR managers might feel otherwise.

Business Model

1. How do they make money?

- Wranx sells a platform (undisclosed amount), where employees can make use of a learning program to close their knowledge gap so they can engage in more effective sales.

2. First steps to implementation

- Facilitate platform so employees can get used to an additional learning “game”.

3. Business Model characteristics

- Software-as-a-service (Wranx provides the software and platform to an organization)
